WASHINGTON CITY.

Progress of the Sioux Indian Business.

WASHINGTON May 30—The Sioux Indians were talking among themselves all the evening trying to decide upon a plan for dividing the reservation so as to let the Government have the Black Hills with the right of way through their lands, and reserve a good portion to themselves They are determined not to go to Indian Territory

NEW YORK, May 31—The Tribune's Washington [illegible] at the next council with the Indians the Secretary of the interior will make two propositions: first that they surrender all right to hunt in [illegible] and Nebraska, and second that they [illegible] to the Government the right to open [illegible] land within the Sioux reservation to [illegible] and permit Government to make roads through such lands and that all mineral lands be left discretionary with the President.

The Sioux Chiefs in Council.

WASHINGTON May 31—The Indians have been holding a council among themselves to-day and though they are not fully agreed have decided to meet the secretary of the interior to morrow and reply to his proposition

Prof. Marsh Interviews the President.

Prof. Marsh called on the President to day, and had a long conversation with him on Indian affairs The Professor showed him some statements from army officers confirming former reports of the bad character of the supplies furnished the Indians at the agencies

The President expressed an interest in the welfare of the Indians and a determination to correct abuses in their management. He seemed to think the best way to secure an honest delivery of supplies to Indians was to have them sent through the commissary department of the army He expressed a determination to keep all intruders out of the Black Hills until the Indian title is extinguished.

The conversation showed that the President had [illegible] the subject with great care and has an earnest desire to adopt such means as would best secure the permanent interests of the Indians.

Appropriations Exhausted.

WASHINGTON May 31 —Attorney General Pierrepont has issued a circular saying that he finds appropriations for the office nearly exhausted and recommends general economy and retrenchment.

A general order issued from the war department announces that the appropriation made by last congress for pay &c, of the army for the fiscal year ending June 30th, is nine hundred thousand dollars short of the sum estimated for the department and present indications are that the appropriation will prove to be insufficient.

The Commissioner of Pensions has written a letter to the Secretary of the Interior saying that as the act of Congress limits the appropriation at his disposal, he has selected the names of nearly fifty male and female clerks whose services will be dispensed with after June 30

Decision by the Court of Claims.

The court of claims to-day rendered an opinion in the case of the U P R R against the U S Government. The court gave judgment for the company in the sum of $512,000 and ordered that a counter claim of defendants be dismissed This counter claim of the government is that defendant is not indebted to claimant under the provisions of the act of July, 1864, or any other act of Congress or otherwise and further that claimant is indebted to defendants in the sum of $1,600 000 for the payment of interest on bonds

The English Parliament.

LONDON May 31—In the House of Lords this evening Earl Russell asked that the correspondence between Great Britain and the continental powers, arising out of the recent war alarm be laid before the House.

The Earl of Derby replied that he sympathized with the curiosity of those who had watched the course of foreign affairs the last few weeks The government desired to conceal nothing it had done [illegible] still would be impossible to give a full account [illegible] largely using confidential communications [illegible] opinions of other governments who would object to such disclosure. The publication of these communications would prevent the English diplomats from receiving information in future and [illegible] mutilated correspondence might mislead the house. The causes of the dispute were [illegible] to recur therefore it was not desirable in the interests of peace to give publicity to the details of the controversy

Lord Derby then proceeded to state that persons high in authority in Berlin of late openly declared that the French army had become a source of danger to Germany, because its magnitude [illegible] a determination on the part of France to renew the war that Germany in self defence might feel it [illegible] to strike first [illegible] and that it was necessary to [illegible] the French army be considerably reduced This language reported by the German representatives here and elsewhere created extreme uneasiness in France and the French government [illegible] all war [illegible] Lord Derby [illegible] he merely [illegible] no statesman in France desired war [illegible] after her humiliation naturally desired to have an army which would give her the influence to which she considered herself entitled One of the difficulties was that France was unable to conceive that German apprehensions were genuine they regarded the representations made by many as a pretext for fresh war and it seemed to her Majesty's Government that there was a mutual misunderstanding which might lead to grave consequences. [illegible] Germany's step might have been a formal request for France to discontinue her armament while France would probably hasten it and thereby confirm the suspicions of Germany. The existence of this mutual distrust afforded a good opportunity to offer the friendly offices of England and Russia saw things in the same light and the visit of the Emperor Alexander to Berlin supplied the means of supporting England's representations

Lord Derby concluded by declaring England had done her duty without any sacrifice in the past present or prospective She had entered into no engagements and made no pledges but her policy of non-intervention did not mean isolation or indifference to the peace of Europe

LONDON May 31 —The House of Commons to night resumed consideration of the question of privilege

The motion offered by the Marquis of Hartington May 4th was taken up It was to the effect that the House should not entertain any complaint with respect to the publication of its proceedings except in case of wilful misrepresentation when representation is prohibition and strangers will not be obliged to withdraw unless they are disorderly or by special direction of the House This motion was negatived;

Disraeli then moved If attention is called by any member to the presence of a stranger the House shall decide by division whether they shall withdraw furthermore that the speaker be empowered to order their withdrawal whenever he sees fit Disraeli's motion was unanimously adopted

Failure of a Great Iron Company—Disastrous Results Feared.

LONDON June 1 [illegible] 30 A M —The Aberdare Iron Co has failed with liabilities at £[illegible] 000 this sum is the total valuation of their works together with those of the Plymouth Iron Co which is one concern with the Aberdare company This failure involves Sanderson & Co bill brokers and Colonel A Smith Their liabilities are placed at £600 000 for the greater part of which their creditors hold the security of James Dowborn The latter's liabilities are estimated at £34 000 and assets £[illegible] 000 The Times comments on the failure of the iron companies and Sanderson & Co as follows

We regret very much to record a trouble failure which will produce results similar to those which followed the collapse of Overend Gurney & Co It is said that Sanderson are involved with Iron companies to the amount of £800 000 and that the aggregate liabilities amount to several millions sterling

ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE

We find the following in the Chicago Tribune of May 21st.

Between 2 and 3 o clock yesterday afternoon Mrs Lincoln went into the drug store of Frank Squair pharmacist in the Grand Pacific Hotel and wanted him to give her some laudanum and camphor saying that she needed it for neuralgia in the arm Knowing her mental condition he pretended he had none ready and that it would take half an hour to put it up She said she would call in again for it and then walked out into the street Mr Squair supposing that she was going to some other drug store put on his hat and followed her She went directly across the street to Rogers & Smith's at the corner of Adams and Clark Just as she was telling Mr Smith that she wanted some laudanum Mr Squair beckoned to Mr Smith and when he came up told him who it was he was talking to, and that he must not give her any laudanum Mr Smith then said to her he could not sell her any without a doctor's order and she left and went down the street to Dale's where she asked for laudanum and camphor separately Mr Squair got in ahead of her and was consequently able to prevent her getting anything there

Then seeing that she was about returning to the Pacific he hurried back to his own place and put up a mixture of one drachm of liquid burnt sugar and ten drops of tincture of camphor in a 3 ounce bottle filled with water and labeled Laudanum and Camphor She took it and went out doors and as soon as she got on the sidewalk she drank the contents About ten minutes afterwards she returned to the drug store, saying that her arm troubled her very much and she wanted some more laudanum to add to the mixture Mr Squair asked her if she had used it and she said no that she wanted it stronger She went behind the counter and began watching him He told her the laudanum was kept in the basement so he went down there and made up a mixture of an ounce of liquid burnt sugar labeled it "Laudanum Poison"—cautioned her to be careful and gave it to her She took it out and drank it In the mean time he had sent for her son who came and took charge of her

CASSIUS M CLAY MAKES A DEMOCRATIC SPEECH —One of the most striking features of the Kentucky Democratic State convention which met at Frankfort on Thursday was the participation in the proceedings of the veteran abolitionist Hon Cassius M Clay When he made his appearance he was greeted with loud applause and spoke as follows

I feel sensibly the compliment you have paid me by this call to address a few words to this distinguished and most important gathering of the Democratic party [applause] but I feel still more sensibly impressed by the cordiality with which you receive me among you so that I may justly say that although I am not easily terrified but being among the unterrified I am to day all the terrified [Laughter and applause] Gentlemen I know there is too much to be done here to day to listen to speeches at this time I thank you for what I know you intend as a compliment Allow me to say that I have always professed to be a Democrat I am an old fashioned letter on Democrat We stand to day upon the same platform You are there and I am there and we are together I do not care who [illegible] but I believe you are to day the true defenders of the Republican and Democratic principles of 1776 The Democratic party to day stands upon these principles and it is the true defender of the constitutional liberties of this country Therefore as I am no untrue [illegible] myself I am nothing else but a Democrat and I am not ashamed to be enlisted under such names as Jefferson Madison and Jackson [Applause]

On Monday of last week Bishop Morris assisted by Rev L H Wells laid the corner stone of the Episcopal church edifice in Pendleton A very respectable number of people from the town and surrounding country were present and took part in the ceremonies

HILL BEACHY.

The following brief sketch of the life of the old stager and pioneer Hill Beachy who died a few days ago in San Francisco from paralysis, may prove of interest to his many friends Few men were better or more widely known in Oregon Idaho and California Hill Beachy was a native of Lebanon Ohio and about 53 years of age He deserted the parental roof at the tender age of 13 and acquired his elementary education at steamboating on the Mississippi river At the breaking out of the Mexican war he went to the Rio Grande, where he established a bakery and sold bread to the soldiers He realized quite a large amount of money in the business but shortly became bankrupt and returned to steamboating in which pursuit he reached the dignity of pilot Ultimately becoming tired of the occupation, he started across Mexico to Guaymas with three others intending to take a sailing vessel for the Sandwich Islands Hearing of the discovery of gold in California the party changed their minds and started for San Francisco arriving there in 18[illegible] with a doubloon in the joint treasury He started for the interior and in 1853 was married in Marysville to Miss Maggie [illegible] since deceased He then went to Red Bluff and started a hotel called the Luna House At the beginning of the late civil war he sold out his business and went to Lewiston, on the Snake river where he engaged once more in the hotel business and in 1866 started a line of stages which he continued to control until 1869 or 1870 His route extended over a distance of seven hundred miles and was very profitable although a large number of his horses were stolen by the Indians It was here that he distinguished himself as an Indian fighter On one occasion his stage was attacked by four Indians and he fought them until he had killed them all He cleared about eighty thousand dollars on his hotel and stage business He then went into mining enterprises and lost a good deal of money His estate is now worth very little Among his effects was found a badge which certifies that he was a veteran of the Mexican war of 1846 He achieved a considerable notoriety a few years ago in connection with the arrest and conviction of Lowery Romaine Howard and Page the murderers of Lloyd Magruder and four others

After the murder of his friend Magruder and companions the suspicions of Beachy were directed to the four men named and he caused their arrest in San Francisco A requisition was obtained for the prisoners and they were returned to Lewiston Idaho Territory where three of them were tried convicted and executed Page having turned State evidence

The remains were conveyed to Marysville arriving there on the 24th ult and were met at the depot by a large concourse of citizens who had known the deceased during his life and escorted to the cemetery where he was buried by the side of his wife and children The following gentlemen acted as pall bearers J H Jewett, N D Rideout C M Paterson George Merritt James Haworth and L J Ashford Deceased leaves one daughter about 11 years of age and a large circle of mourning friends

The Walla Walla Statesman says Two or three days of last week the water counted ten teams that were bearing away from its disgusted citizens Six of these teams were from the Spokane country and four from the head of the Copper

The schooner G[illegible] H[illegible] from the lower Sound is now discharging at Tacoma She brought from San Juan Island 109 barrels of lime for shipment to Portland and from Port Townsend 35 tons of stone to be used in building the foundation for the new chimney of the Tacoma sawmill

Mr James Thomas, of Whidby Island, about a year ago sustained a fall the most serious effect of which was the fracture of one of the bones of his leg He would not submit to amputation at the time but the bone became so much diseased that after suffering intensely for twelve months he had the limb cut off a few days ago

The mill at Port Ludlow like all the others on the Sound has lately been driven to its fullest capacity About twelve million feet of saw logs are now in the boom Several million feet of lumber cut by the Ludlow mill have been exported during the past year in the shape of one barkentine and eight schooners built at that place

Concerning mill operations on the Sound the Tribune says The cleaning up and repairs of the Tacoma sawmill occupied ten days of last week and this were finished on Wednesday and work was resumed on Thursday The Port Blakely mill has been putting in a new boiler repairing its tow boat etc Colman's mill at Seattle is shut down for a couple of weeks, making improvements and increasing its capacity one third The Freeport mill is yet under renovation instituted by the new owner At Port Ludlow it is contemplated to remove the furnaces and boilers to a location fifty yards outside the present mill building where a stone and brick foundation is awaiting them and where the tall chimney is already erected

A HORRIBLE AFFAIR

FATAL AFFRAY BETWEEN FATHER AND SON

GLEN HAVEN Wis May 17 —The excitement in this part of the State over the terrible tragedy at the Young farm three miles from this place is intense and hundreds of people from the surrounding towns have visited the scene of the occurrence

Ex Senator M K Young of this (Grant) county has or rather had four sons two of whom Albert and Marion kept a store in this village Albert had always been regarded as a reckless young man and a short time ago it was discovered that he had been forging the name of Joseph Cockels to various checks drawn on the First National Bank of McGregor

It was generally supposed that Senator Young would settle the matter in some way, but it appears that he was rather averse to such a proceeding and preferred that the law should take its course This was evidently contrary to what the hopeful son expected and so enraged him that he threatened the father's life, and on Friday morning he left for the farm to execute his threat

When he approached the house the father evidently had a foreboding of the parricide's intention and locked himself in a room But Albert determined not to be frustrated, forced the door whereupon the father fled by a back door hastily pursued by his offspring, who began to empty his revolver at him Several balls had taken effect when Mr Young also drew a revolver and returned the fire, one of the balls taking effect in Albert's abdomen but without disabling him or cooling his hellish desire for murder When both had discharged the contents of their revolvers, father and son came to close quarters but the former was so weakened from the loss of blood that he fell to the ground while the latter picked up a hatchet lying near and began to hack away at his father's head as if he were dispatching some wild beast

Members of the family and neighbors who had been attracted by the report of the revolvers now hurried to the scene but before they could lay hands on the murderer he had reloaded his revolver and dragging himself to a neighboring field put the muzzle of the weapon to his head and blew out his miserable brains

Surgical aid was called as soon as possible and it was found that four bullets had entered the old gentleman's head which showed besides numerous wounds made by the hatchet The bloody instrument is in the hands of the authorities It is literally covered with the gray hairs of the aged parent At last accounts Senator Young was still alive but no hope is entertained of his recovery It is rumored that all the members of the family will be taken into custody

GRAND MASONIC REUNION.

From the Olympia Transcript we learn the following in relation to the Grand Masonic reunion of the M W Grand Lodges of Oregon Idaho and Washington Territory now occupying the ancient limits of the M W Grand Lodge of Oregon

An ambitious Cove man who is the head of a family consisting of a wife and three children is also owner of a half dozen hens which in an unguarded moment laid three eggs A happy idea seized our ambitious man He sent to a neighbor's and borrowed yet nine other eggs and with the combined cargo sent to the store and bought a plug of tobacco So says the Sentinel

Leonard Lowe who has a fine ranch on the waters of Burnt river informs the Baker Democrat that his fruit trees are full of blossoms and the prospect for a good crop of fruit in his orchard is good Other parties from the same section report favorable as to the fruit crop The orchards in our county are young, but will bear considerable fruit this year Those who have orchards are satisfied that fruit trees will do well in Baker county

The editor of the paper at Astoria calls the complaints which the captains of vessels make concerning vexatious delays caused by the manner of conducting the tug and pilotage business at the mouth of the Columbia, "senseless twaddle" The people of Oregon don't see it in that light however and when another legislature meets, we believe the evils complained of will be remedied The remedy will benefit Astoria if it does take away the [illegible] in trade of the Astorian's editor

The Pendleton Tribune of last Saturday says Last Thursday a band of 2 000 large wethers passed over the bridge up Main street They belonged to one Wheeler and he was going with them to Nevada They had been purchased from various parties in Umatilla county and were fine large sized fellows Scarcely had this band disappeared from view, and the dust which they raised settled ere another band numbering about 1 300 ewes and lambs passed over the bridge going westward

Wesley Howell of Marion county had a [illegible] year old mare worth a good deal of money that was running in a field where they were cutting and burning off young fir poles to clear the ground She must have been racing about this field in play when the accident occurred of which we shall tell for Sunday evening just about sundown as she hadn't come up, they went out to hunt her, and found her standing with a fir pole three or four inches in diameter jagged and ragged and blunt projecting through the skin and flesh between the shoulder and the body

Last Wednesday evening says the Pendleton Tribune Sheriff Pruett arrested and lodged in the county jail an Indian by the name of Charley charged with the crime of assault and fatally stabbing another red skin by the name of O[illegible] The affray occurred on Butter creek, near the residence of Mr Douglas, on the 12th instant The Indian when brought before the court plead guilty and Esq Hallock ordered him committed without further ceremony The Tribune adds This worthless, lousy Indian will cost Umatilla county from $1 000 to $5 000 The Indians on the reservation own not less than $500 000 worth of property yet they do not pay any taxes whatever If there is any justice in this it is not perceptible to the naked eye Then they should help bear the expenses of the trial of their outlaws or the Federal Government should defray the entire bill

EX SENATOR NYE'S CASE —New York May 16 —Ex Senator James D Nye is in the Sanford Hall Lunatic Asylum near Brooklyn where he has been pronounced hopelessly insane Yesterday his friends had him removed from the Bloomingdale Lunatic Asylum as they considered that his occasionally violent fits and the general direction of the [illegible] could be better undertaken in a semi private asylum He is not allowed to be seen excepting by his most particular and intimate friends He is very violent at times and constantly has with him a special attendant. While in the Bloomingdale it was found necessary to confine him at times with a straight jacket so terrible did his paroxysms become He is furnished with a fine suite of rooms in [illegible] a bed room and a parlor where however the furniture is as simple as can be, for fear of unnecessary loss In the bed room a neat little bed stands in one corner a wash stand being placed at its foot A table stands near the window which is of course barred and on it are some flowers possibly placed by loving hands A neat carpet covers the floor The parlor is furnished in solid furniture with rep covering He is never completely himself but is subject to hallucinations which speedily pass away and give way to others of usually equal quiet He attempts to read and write but with no success His mental faculties do not seem to be dimmed by any temporary lunacy but to have actually and completely given way probably never to return again The brain has been worn out by constant use disappointment worry and excess He has it seems at last lost all strength He looks careworn and fatigued the old ruddy complexion and stout physique have gone, and in their stead there is a rather pale flabby individuality in which no single trait of former capacity is visible

AN IOWA SENSATION

Lila M Corey of Wilton Iowa is a poor motherless girl 1[illegible] years old Her father is not in circumstances to be above the necessity of seeking a livelihood for his family, and is away from home much of his time Lately, while her father was absent at St Louis on business Lila made the acquaintance of some fast young bloods who spent their evenings with her and otherwise showed her such attentions as she had never received before and such as flattered her and turned her poor childish head A star is not a star after it has fallen out of heaven The poor girl deserved pity at least She did not receive pity, though, but something else A company composed of Mrs A Mrs B, etc, to the number of a dozen or so, all of the "best people" of the town, marched over to the house where Ella and her new friends were broke in upon them, drove the visitors out—which was right enough—and then instead of trying to rescue the girl from the life she was entering upon, as they would have done if they had been a little better than she they proceeded to give her a disguise of tar and feathers and to order her to leave the town They even forced her out into the chill night air, thinly clad and with nowhere under the broad canopy of heaven to go for refuge They also broke out the windows of the house in which she lived, She entreated to be allowed at least to go back into her windowless house to get some thicker clothing, and the virtuous, tender-hearted, Christian ladies mercifully permitted it Then she went to the city of Davenport to an old negro woman whom she had known in her childhood and asked her for shelter, and the old woman opened her door and her heart and took in the fallen child She had relatives in Davenport but in her shame she could not go to them When her father returned and found out all that had taken place, he was greatly mortified and grieved at his daughter's conduct and he was indignant, too, but not exactly in the same direction as the indignant sisters had been He first hunted up his child and brought her back home, and his next step may be understood when it is stated a suit for damages has been commenced, entitled Lila M Corey by Elias Corey, her next friend vs Mr and Mrs A, Mr and Mrs B et al, for $10 000 and another suit entitled Elias Corey vs Mr and Mrs A, Mr and Mrs B et al for $1 000 damage to the property It is said the entire community, excepting the defendants, side with the plaintiffs, and the matter has occasioned no little sensation

AN INTERESTING OCCASION.

MONUMENTS OF EARLY DAYS ON THIS NORTHWEST COAST

The twenty sixth of May was the seventieth birthday of Mrs M F Eells wife of Rev C C Eells who came to Oregon in 1838, as missionary to the Indians On the evening of that day a company of her friends assembled at Skokomish, Washington Territory, to congratulate her, among them being all of her children and grandchildren Several hymns were sung including two of her life-loved hymns and tunes, beginning

God is the refuge of his saints

To the tune of 'Malvern,' and

While thee I seek protecting power,'

To the tune of Brattle Street "

Remarks were made by Dr R H Lansdale, congratulating her on her birth and education in Massachusetts on her work among the Spokane Indians and that the seed then sown was still growing and ripening on her social relations her husband the only one of the family not present being absent for the summer on a missionary tour among the Spokane Indians and the surrounding region and her sons one the agent on the Skokomish reservation and the other a missionary to the Indians at the same place and on her arrival at the age of three score years and ten In reply she stated that she made a public profession of religion when she was thirteen years of age fifty seven years ago and that it had been the means of saving her from much temptation and trouble.

Portions of a few letters written by her many years ago to her family in the East were read one on the 9th of July, 1838 and dated Rendezvous of the American Fur Company on Wind river, a branch of the Yellowstone between the Black Hills and the Rocky Mountains, 1,100 miles from the western boundary of Missouri,' one of October 4th 1838 written just after her arrival at Walla Walla, says The country is large and comparatively few inhabitants in it. The Hudson Bay Company have a number of trading posts which are generally about 300 miles apart Mr Spaulding [at Lapwai, Idaho] ' and Dr Whitman, [at Walla Walla] 'each have a station about 125 miles apart The Methodist mission has two stations, one 150 miles ' [at The Dalles,] ' and the other 100 miles from here,' [at Salem] Surely comparatively few inhabitants Another letter says Your letter dated September, 1841 I received July 1843 Twenty one months from Massachusetts to Washington Territory The last was one written to her own mother in 1847, when the latter was nearly 70 years of age These letters were obtained by her son a few years ago, while in Massachusetts and were before the age of envelopes with the old fashioned ship stamped on them and twenty two for postage The good old age of several members of the mission of which she was a member was remarked Rev H H Spaulding dying last year at the age of nearly 71, and the six others now living on this coast being between 60 and 70 Mrs Eells being the oldest 'Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow, was then sung Deacon W Wright led in prayer, and the benediction was pronounced by Rev M Eells

PIUS IX ON MASONRY

We find in the Catholic Sentinel the following piece of mediaeval bigotry, which that paper says has just been addressed by His Holiness the Pope to the director of the Association of Reparation to the Most Holy Trinity, which has been established in France for the object of supplicating God for the extinction of the secret societies and the conversion of their members "

PIUS IX POPE

DEAR SON HEALTH AND THE APOSTOLIC BENEDICTION It is now a long while since that in the origin of the Masonic sect I as the Holy See which very clearly detected its malice, condemned it and smitten it with repeated excommunications It distinctly foretold all the evils it could not but bring upon religion and civil society In fact this worthy daughter of Satan making a god of man and making every one the supreme judge of his conduct does in that fact itself reject all authority divine and human and consequently breaks asunder the tie which holds together all society

The warnings of the Church have been unheeded, and many even of those whose duty it was to crush this monster have not feared to encourage it, and so effectually that, at the present moment no human force is able to struggle against it It is thus necessary in order to tear up this poisonous root of the evils which are afflicting nations and urging into the eternal abyss souls which it withdraws from life and salvation to have recourse to the Omnipotent Of his own strength he hurled from heaven the true parent of this sect Of his own strength he is now able to make it disappear from the earth We think therefore that it behooves us to recommend the plan you have proposed for appeasing God, offended by this impious society, which, especially in its dens of scandal outrages him with insults and blasphemies, and for supplicating at the same time, of our Lord the destruction of this sect and the conversion of those who belong to it, and, for that object, to form, with the consent of ecclesiastical authority a society whose members, if priests, shall unite in threes to offer Holy Sacrifice of the Mass to the Holy Trinity, and if laics, to make, for the same intention and daily, three communions.

We rejoice to learn that this society, only just formed, has already become widely extended We trust that it will become more so, in order that by multiplying the numbers of those who pray, it may the more speedily appease the anger of God, and obtain the grace which we desire. It is for this, most dear son, that we give you lovingly, and to all who are associated with you in this work, the Apostolic benediction, a token of celestial favor, and a pledge of our paternal affection.

Emilio Castelar has addressed the following letter to the rector of the University of Madrid "I am a partisan of liberty and law As soon as, in the course of historic events, I see a sect attack the principles of freedom, I combat it That course is now of exceptional importance, especially since the decrees of the Vatican Council have imprinted on the church a stamp of absolutism full of danger for political institutions. Never shall I advise that this absolutism should be opposed by force, for its semi-Asiatic power is based on the human conscience, in the moral depths of which authority does not penetrate But as a man, as a member of one of those associations which are called universities, and which represent eternal science I demand that, to estimate and judge those institutions I should be left that plenitude of intellectual liberty which I received from nature, and which the law has sanctioned As long as I do not possess that full and entire freedom I should not reascend my chair, the inalienable rights of which are constantly menaced by the purely administrative power of the first comer who happens to be minister at the moment."

TUESDAY MORNING JUNE 1 1875

THE PRESIDENT UNDERESTIMATES HIS POWER

President Grant fails to do justice to himself and his position when he says in his letter on the third term, that a President cannot cause his own renomination. It were happy for the Republic if that were true, but it is not. It may be admitted that no President could secure a nomination if all or nearly all the people of the party from which he sought such nomination should engage in a timely and active opposition to his aspirations but that is a case that can only be imagined, never occurring as an actual fact. The patronage in the hands of the President is a greater power for the securing of a political convention than the inactive disapproval of nineteen twentieths of the lay members of the party. What with the sense of obligation which an officer naturally feels toward the person from whom his appointment came, and the sense of danger every officer feels when contemplating an act directly affecting the appointing power, the President can generally command the services of his appointees for any such emergency, and these having the leisure and means to attend well to politics, and all the inside machinery of the government to assist them, can secure a sufficient majority in the delegations to control the convention. And then the President appears not to remember some very recent transactions illustrating the use that may be made of the military arm of the government in bringing about desired results in politics. As this is really a power wielded by the President and sufficient in itself, under suitable conditions, to give him the control of whole States, we reproduce here, that the memory of all may be refreshed, a brief statement of the mode of using power, as testified before an investigating committee of the Alabama Legislature recently, by J S Perrin, a Republican member of that body from Wilcox county. Mr Perrin testified:

> Troops were retained in Alabama before the election on a requisition of myself and others it having been understood that Spencer had arranged for troops to be put at the disposal of Mayer and other revenue officers wherever intimidation was necessary. These troops, accompanied by United States marshals who had fictitious warrants, with citizens' names prominently displayed and shown to persons who would inform them, were paraded in various counties. I shot a hole in my hat and reported that I had been attacked by Ku Klux and I sent troops to arrest the mythical assailants. I kept the troops as long as I could use them as a political machine. Our purpose was to secure the Legislature at all hazards, and elect Spencer."

That Perrin is shown by this testimony to be a contemptible villain, does not weaken the force of the proposition that the President puts entirely too modest an estimate upon the power he has in his hands. There is abundant evidence corroborating the statements of this individual, and even the government organs at Washington do not pretend to deny that in the main it is true. Whether President Grant will secure his own renomination by the convention, with the certainty of defeat at the ballot-box, the future alone will show, but there is no doubt that he can do so, unless the people of the party shall, between now and the time of the preliminary meetings by which the delegates will be designated rouse out of their lethargy and take the matter in their own hands.

BLACK HILLS

Negotiation with the Sioux chiefs for the cession by them of the Black Hills country to the United States does not progress very rapidly or very promisingly thus far. These Indians manifest in a strong degree that attachment to the land of their nativity which is a marked characteristic of their race. The Indian never becomes wholly reconciled to giving up the land of his birth. No other country suits him. There may be lands where game is more abundant, where the climate is less rigorous, where defense against neighboring tribes is easier and offensive operations less perilous but still he clings to the home of his fathers.

There is a pathos which touches the sympathy in the constancy with which the Sioux chiefs, in the face of the inevitable, refuse to give up the Black Hills. They will divide the country and circumscribe their own movements within the narrowest limits possible. They will if need be, grant special privileges which may amount to a sort of joint occupancy. But the offer of a better home in the Indian Territory is no temptation to them. The leading man among them has demonstrated how clearly he comprehends the position of affairs, by remarking with the impassive philosophy of the ideal Indian, that he cannot understand what the President means when he tells the Indians he is not going to take their country without their consent, and then tells them that unless they consent the government will have to withdraw its support and protection from them and they must perish. He thinks that looks like force. But yet he will never consent to leave his country.

There is an urgent demand for the consummation of some agreement that will open the Black Hills to white settlement, a demand that must be allowed to outweigh all mere sentiment. The country is supposed to be rich in the precious metals. The existence of these in that region, it is true, has been disputed, but there is little room to doubt that the reports of gold discoveries there have some foundation in fact. At any rate the idea has got abroad, the Black Hills fever has spread like a contagion throughout the West, and there will be no more peace for Indian or white man till the country is opened and prospected. The Government should act in this matter, in such a way as to protect the Indian in all his rights, and should not wantonly trample on his affection for his home, but it should be borne in mind at the same time that the future peace of both Indian and white man requires the opening of that country.

Almost on the very same day when the Pope fulminates his decree against Freemasonry the Prince of Wales and future King of England is installed as Grand Master of the Order for England.

CLEAN THEM OUT

The Tribune, remarking on the whisky frauds well says: After all the crooked whisky has been tracked to its last hiding place and every illicit still has given up its guilty secret and the small scoundrels in the collectors offices have been dismissed and punished and the game of defrauding the government by means of whisky has been made unsafe and unprofitable something will yet remain to be done by Secretary Bristow before the full harvest of his work is reaped. It ought not to be beyond the power of a skillful detective force to discover who in the Treasury Department and in the Bureau of Internal Revenue have been furnishing the whisky ring with such valuable information for months past. It a recent admirable stroke of business will have been wasted if these branches of the public service cannot be swept clean of such corrupt and treacherous servants. It will be idle to look upon any reform as permanent as long as the departments are worm eaten by such pests as these.

And now comes the Utica Observer, a stirring Democratic organ and expresses a fear that if Grant is beaten in the next convention the Republicans will go to the other extreme and pick up some half independent Republican like Joe Hawley, of Connecticut or Blaine, of Maine. That is the dread that is keeping a good many Bourbons besides the Observer on the ragged edge of despair. If the Republicans would only nominate Grant, there would be plain sailing, but the nomination of some half independent or whole independent, would make it a horse of another color.

It is reported, we fear reliably, that Ignatious Donnelly has again come to the front and is canvassing Minnesota for the Independent nomination for anything from Governor down to justice of the peace. And they do say he has had his hickory shirt washed, has got a fresh supply of hay seed sprinkled on his hat and thus armed will march on the unsuspecting Grangers in force.

The Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of the State of Indiana recently sustained the action of a subordinate lodge in expelling a member because he was a saloon keeper.

The Bulletin appears again as a morning paper. Mr Joseph Gaston last Saturday had a card inserted announcing the severance of his connection with the paper.

THE BOY WITH THE "AGER"

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

It was plain that he didn't feel well He changed his seat on the Postoffice steps, so as to let the warm sun strike him all over, and every moment or two he raised his arms and stretched and yawned Plenty of dirty boots went by but he looked upon them with indifference The promise of $1 wouldn't have induced him to go over to Jefferson avenue and back

The yawns came faster, cold streaks crept up and down his back, and his lips turned blue A pedestrian halted, looked at him, and asked

"Boy, are you sick?"

"N not exactly sick," answered the boy, "b but I don't feel highfalutin"

The man passed on and the boy's teeth began to chatter, and he drew himself up in a small heap and tried to have the sun strike him on all sides at once

A portly man halted and looked and then striking his cane on the walk he asked

"Bub, what's the matter?"

"A-a a a-ger," replied the boy

"Humph!" said the fat man, as he passed on

Some boys came round the corner, and one shouted out

"See his blue ears!"

"And hear them teeth shaking!" cried another

"And see how he shivers!" shouted a third

They kindly took hold of him and tried to hold him still, but the shivers would make him jerk, and his teeth would clatter as before One boy ran off and returned with some peanuts and a prize package, but the lad with the ague turned away his head Peanuts had once been his best hold, but now was his hour of sorrow

"What ails that boy?" asked a woman, as she halted

"Got the awfullest fit of the ager you ever seed!" answered one of the boys.

"Well, he ought to be put to bed," she said as she passed on The boys offered to draw him home in a cart, but his eyes flashed as he drew himself up, held on to his teeth, and exclaimed

"'Spose I let the ager floor me!"

A man came along with a satchel in his hand, and after taking a good look at the boy he said

"I had the ager fourteen straight years and never missed but one day, and I know how to sympathize with you If I had any money I'd give you some in a minute"

The boys leaned the patient back against the wall, and while one of them combed his hair with an old horn pocket comb, another washed his hands by spitting on them and then rubbing with his coat tail Such tender and unexpected attentions touched Jorgy's heart, and his eyes filled with tears as he said

"B-boys, if I ever g-get well I'll m-make this all right!"

Then one of the boys took the patient's head in his lap, another held his feet, and a third stood on call.

"What's this?" asked a policeman, as he lounged up.

"Powerful sick boy," whispered one of the lads "He's jest groaning and taking on awfully."

"Well, this is no place for a sick boy You'd better get him home, or take him into the alley"

"Take a dying boy into the alley" echoed the lad. "Sir! Do you think a dying boy is a hoss?"

The officer wandered away and Jorgy whispered his gratitude He said if he died, he wanted Lame Jack to have his knife, little Dick his wallet, and Peanut Tom could take all the rest

They held him there for an hour, and when his chill passed off and the fever came on, six or seven of them loaded him into a borrowed hand-cart, pillowed his head on a bundle of papers, and drew him homeward Some said it would result in death, and even spoke of him as "the deceased," but others argued that there was a chance for him to pull through and to once more give his undivided attention to "them butes"

A BOY'S LEAP

A LAD RISKED IN A ROCKY CHASM FOR A FIVE DOLLAR GREENBACK

NEWBURGH, (N Y), May 12—In the rear of Arthur Dubois' hotel in Marlborough, Ulster county, six or seven miles from this city, is a gorge 200 feet deep Immediately behind the hotel the bank slopes down about 125 feet to a ledge of rocks, and from there to the bottom of the gorge the bank is almost perpendicular, and is covered with moss and a slimy substance, with water oozing from the crevices of the rocks

A few days ago, Mr Egbert Hall, while standing on the piazza in the rear of the hotel, which overlooks the chasm, while coughing, lost a set of teeth, and on Sunday morning, after several persons had discussed the possibility of getting down to this ledge of rocks, two men by securing a rope to the building lowered themselves to the ledge, but without any success in finding the teeth.

On returning they spoke of the impossibility of getting to the bottom of the gorge, on account of the abruptness of the bank from the ledge down, when a boy about 15 years of age, David Ward, volunteered to go to the bottom, if any one would give him fifty cents. A bystander offered to give him $5 if he reached the bottom, and he immediately began to descend, reaching the rocky ledge with little trouble, when, to the horror of those who were watching him, he deliberately jumped from its brink and disappeared from sight. Everybody supposed that he was instantly killed, but in a moment they saw him appear in sight at the bottom of the gorge waving his hat and shouting in triumph When he struck among the stones and gravel at the bottom he landed on his feet, but the momentum caused him to turn a complete somersault, and he escaped with only a slight sprain of one hand. The distance down is about 75 feet, and the leap is one of the most remarkable on record, certainly so where so little injury was sustained

ANOTHER "DOG SCHNEIDER" STORY — Erie (Pa), May 10 — About seven years ago a party of hunters from Allegheny City, this State, came here to hunt ducks up on Presque Isle Peninsula One of the party, Mr. Charles L Huchinson, lost a valuable gold watch and chain—a gift from a very dear, deceased friend—among the numerous little ponds that intersect the Peninsula. Long and diligent search, consuming several days, were made, and, no trace of the watch being found, the search was given up as a hopeless one Mr. H went back to Allegheny City, but could not forget his loss Seven years have passed since then Last week, while here on a visit he felt a strong inclination to renew the search for his long missing time-piece, and alone he again went over the ground formerly traversed by him While sitting down among the bushes to empty his boots of the sand that had just got into them he chanced to cast his eye upward, when, to his intense surprise and joy, he saw the watch and chain, hanging to the limbs of a small sapling, just as they had hung there seven years before, when the young twig—now grown quite large—had jerked them from his pocket! The wood of the sapling had grown over and about the chain, holding it in a firm grasp Mr Hutchinson carefully cut off the branch within which the chain was imbedded, and expresses his intention of preserving it in that condition The watch has been cleaned and repaired, and, strange to say is now keeping as good time as in former years The watch is an English hunting case, and, when found bore little evidence of the exposure to which it had been subjected —Cor Chicago Tribune

Business circles to-day exhibit no important change from the condition noted last week There is no complaint on the score of scarcity of the monetary supply The offers of good paper are not met by no means freely, and good securities are readily taken at rates favorable to sellers Money on real estate is to be had on moderate terms though no positive feeling is noticed in the general market The aggregate demand for loans shows no tendency to increase, and business in that line is reported quite slack

Our mail advices from San Francisco indicate that the money market in that center is not so abundantly supplied as was the case a while ago but yet sufficient for the demands of the legitimate trade with slightly hardening tendency in rates both at the banks and in the open market

From the Eastern cities comes word that the banks will find it convenient in the course of a few weeks to use their influence to induce shipments of wheat in order to get into shape for the new crops Operators are inclined to regard the market with considerable suspicion The damage inflicted by the 'hoppers on the growing crops will doubtless have its effect at sometime in the near future but at present the large stocks on hand, coupled with light legitimate trade seem to be sufficient to outweigh every influence of a bull nature and to give the bears a controlling power

About the Wheat Trade.

This branch of trade in our home market has shown no life now for more than a month and though it is believed that a considerable surplus is yet held in the interior of the State the holders show very little disposition to sell or even to investigate the markets and but few lots are offered at any price The most of that now unsold will be carried over until after next harvest as the recent reports of a partial failure of the wheat crops in some of the leading wheat growing countries has produced a very general belief in our State that prices will materially advance as soon as the market feels the effect of short crops elsewhere While the crop of California will be 25 per cent below average and that of some of the Western States will only produce a half crop the latest news is favorable for the producers generally in both the sections named and the yield will be better than was hoped for a month ago

In the commercial column of the Chicago Times of May 1 th we find the following in relation to the wheat trade of that city

The reports from the grasshopper districts in Missouri and other States naturally imparted a little strength to the trade but there was no disposition to use them as the basis for a bull movement. The ruling prices being already sufficiently above a shipping point to place an embargo on our shipping business and to drive Eastern buyers to other centers for supplies operators appeared to be satisfied to leave the market in an unchanged state Prices averaged a shade higher than on Monday but the advance realized was unimportant, and failed to command any confidence or develop any special interest. The deal if anything, was really bearish in tone and but for the grasshopper reports there are good reasons to believe that a material decline would have been suffered Large stocks a steady increase in the accumulation here the advanced stage of the season and the continued insignificant shipments for this period of the year are influences certainly against either a strong or healthy market and are apt to make operators think twice before engaging in any movement looking to higher prices, or a more unhealthy state of affairs Hence the feeling yesterday was pervaded by a bearish or doubtful tone and the general trade was apparent ly regarded with considerable suspicion

The same state of affairs as above indicated exist here as regards the shipping business "The ruling prices being sufficiently above a shipping point as to place an embargo on the shipping business

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words, among not only one but many nations must have extraordinary virtues.—Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral It has been before the public about forty years by a long continued series of marvellous cures that have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicine It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs Colds Consumption that can be made by medical skill Indeed the Cherry Pectoral has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well founded if the remedy be taken in season Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members Sickness suffering and even life is saved by this timely protection The prudent should not neglect it and the wise will not Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY & COLOR

Advancing years sickness, care, disappointment and hereditary predisposition all turn the hair gray and either of them incline it to shed prematurely

Ayer's Hair Vigor, by long and extensive use has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately, often renews the growth and always surely restores its color, when faded or gray It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity and preserves both the hair and its beauty Thus brashy, weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened, lost hair regrows with lively expression falling hair is checked and established thin hair thickens and faded or gray hair resume their original color Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff heals all humors and keeps the scalp cool, clean and soft—under which conditions diseases of the scalp are impossible

As a dressing for ladies hair the Vigor is praised for its grateful and agreeable perfume and valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.

Grand Council at Washington [illegible] Sell Out for $25,000.

WASHINGTON, June 1—All the delegations of [illegible] dians met at the rooms of the [illegible] of the [illegible] rior this morning to have another council. A[illegible] agents and interpreters were present. The In[illegible] were gaudily attired and painted. Commi[illegible] Smith told the Indians that when here las[illegible] secretary made a proposal to them to go t[illegible] dian Territory, and asked them to conside[illegible] offer of the government of $25 000 to relinquish [illegible] of their hunting grounds [illegible] of the [illegible] white people to go to [illegible] Hills and the [illegible] culty preventing them. [illegible] regard to going t[illegible] dian Territory they had expressed themselve[illegible] posed to it, and unless they had changed [illegible] minds there was no use in saying anything [illegible] about that. The secretary [illegible] them that if [illegible] didn't accept the offer o[illegible] in thirty days [illegible] might not get it all. In regard to the Black [illegible] they had now had plenty of time to think, a[illegible] was hoped they could give [illegible] definite an[illegible] to day as would make it u[illegible] necessary to have [illegible] er talk on the subject.

Red Cloud said the Great Spirit heard and [illegible] mercy on me and pity me He called Heave[illegible] earth to witness before he spake. The Pres[illegible] must have made a mistake in telling him wh[illegible] came here that these arra[illegible] ments were the [illegible] years. The President [illegible] so at that tim[illegible] select country for [illegible] grounds, and h[illegible] done so. The two [illegible] side came last[illegible] mer and told him [illegible] some time about the [illegible] 000 and he said wait till I [illegible] and see the Pres[illegible] and see if he has got the money. If it is [illegible] there. I have children and am not [illegible] to do anything to make them poor. [illegible] $25 000 will only pay for land [illegible] nee Creek. We wish to retain the rest [illegible] he was here four years ago he was shown [illegible] building where all the money is kept, an[illegible] knows he had a large amount of [illegible] would take this $25 000 but when white [illegible] wanted them to try and get more. When he [illegible] here before nothing was said about the India[illegible] ritory. Since he has been here this time h[illegible] seen but little of the President, and thought [illegible] he should be asked to go there to live, and [illegible] now told them twice he would not go. His [illegible] was a good one he wished to keep it. Did [illegible] running the Nebraska line through his co[illegible] and considered it robbery. Last winter, whi[illegible] nuities were issued, many of his people [illegible] and did not get their goods. He wanted [illegible] goods for them and was not satisfied with the[illegible] sent him. Did not like salt pork and thoug[illegible] children had died from eating it. He want[illegible] con rice, hominy and tea sent him; was look[illegible] the future for his children and tried to do th[illegible] for them

After further talk the Indians agreed to [illegible] $25 000 in consideration of relinquishing [illegible] portion of their hunting ground in Nebraska [illegible] secretary is willing to concede them should [illegible] territory 10 or 15 miles south of Nebraska [illegible] The treaty was drawn up but Spotted Tail [illegible] to sign it until they received the $25,000 appr[illegible] ted for this purpose. It was explained th[illegible] money couldn't be obtained till the trea[illegible] signed, and the Indians were given a copy [illegible] treaty to take to their rooms to consider ov[illegible] matter.

The Secretary of the treasury has issued a [illegible] $10,000 000 five twenty cent coupon bonds.
